MOTION FOR RELEASE ON BOND

Defendant JAROSLAVA KLEPLOVA, by the Federal Defender Program and its attorney JOHN F. MURPHY, respectfully requests that the Court enter an order vacating the previously entered detention order and release the defendant on a bond secured by $5,000.00, the signature of a third-party custodian, and regular, daily contact with the U.S. Pretrial Services office. In further support, defendant further states:

1. On November 15, 2007, Ms. Kleplova was charged in a six-count indictment with allegations of mail fraud. On the same day, a warrant was issued for her arrest.
2. On November 26, 2007, Ms. Kleplova was arrested, and appeared before Magistrate Judge Maria Valdez for an initial appearance.
3. On November 29, 2007, Ms. Kleplova appeared again before Judge Valdez for a detention hearing. A report prepared by the U.S. Pretrial Service office was provided to the court. At that time, upon advice of counsel, Ms. Kleplova waived the hearing without prejudice to raise the bond issue at a later time. Ms. Kleplova, therefore, was detained.
4. On December 11, 2007, at a status hearing before this Court, counsel for Ms. Kleplova indicated that he wished to schedule a detention hearing. This Court indicated that the bond matter, in the first instance, should be raised before the magistrate judge.

5. On December 19, 2007, Ms. Klepova appeared before Magistrate Judge Valdez on her Motion for Release on Bond. The court denied Ms. Klepova's request for release.

6. Ms. Klepova requests that the Court vacate the order of detention and enter a release order granting her a $50,000 bond, secured by a 10% cash deposit of $5,000. Additional conditions of release would require that she maintain regularly daily contact with the U.S. Pretrial Services office. Additionally, Mr. Miroslave Preidal, a friend of Ms. Klepova, has agreed to serve as a third-party custodian.

6. This combination of conditions will assure that Ms. Klepova does not pose a risk of flight as the government has suggested. No presumption against release exists in this case. Consequently, these proposed terms reasonably assure the appearance of Ms. Klepova as required. 18 U.S.C. §3142.

Therefore, the defendant respectfully requests that this Court enter an order vacating the previously entered detention order and ordering that the defendant be released pursuant to the above-suggested conditions.

Respectfully submitted,
